What began in Whitney Lamy's Vermont farmhouse kitchen has grown into a splendid line of all-natural, GMO-free crackers that are perfect vehicles for all sorts of cheese, charcuterie, soups, salads, and any number of beverages. Recently, Whitney has re-vamped the packaging, color coding her simple boxes so that they visually pop off the shelf. Her newest flavor, Salted Maple, is a delicious, slightly sweet cracker that would pair beautifully with a variety of deli delicacies.

Dark Moon Ash-Rinded Brie ▼
By Marin French Cheese

Marin French Cheese has done it again. Not one to rest on their laurels, Marin French has introduced Dark Moon, a Petite ash-rinded, triple-cream brie that is aged to perfection at the Marin County facility. A Sofi Award finalist, Dark Moon won Gold at California's 2016 State Fair, one of many garnered by Marin French and its sister company, Laura Chenel Chevre. Dark Moon has delicate, earthy overtones. It gets its name from the elegant layer of vegetable ash that protects the lush, creamy interior. Made from fresh cow's milk from neighboring Marin County dairy farms, this new 4-ounce triple-cream wheel is art of the brand's Petite Brie collection. While historically speaking it is not common to envelop soft-ripened cheeses with ash, Marin French has innovated once again by combining traditional production practices with inventive techniques to create a delectable and visually enticing cheese.
